Students will learn dental anatomy, physiology and morphology, theory and fundamental applied techniques for crown and bridge constructions.

Introduction to Fixed Restorative Techniques and Model and Die (DLT 103)

Model and die fabrication, articulation, construction of wax patterns for progressively more complex partial and full crowns and bridges will be demonstrated and practiced.

Wax Pattern 1 and 2 (DLT 104,105)

Present an Indirect technique for pattern development, undercut wax to be removed from a wax pattern before investing, low thermal conductivity on inlay wax. What areas of the wax pattern is the most critical in the waxing procedure, establishing the occlusal table of a wax pattern.

Spruing and Investing, Wax Elimination and Casting (DLT 106)

Direct spruing and investing, wax elimination and casting, and finishing the casting of single crowns and bridges are also demonstrated.

Occlusion (DLT 107)

Students will also be educated in basic principles of maxillary to mandibular occlusal relationships, the three basic criteria for a functional occlusion, ideal centric occlusion provides. Major patterns of eccentric tooth contacts are also taught.

Crown & Bridge (DLT 108)

Teach how to providing suitable substitutes for the coronal portions of teeth or for one or more lost or missing natural teeth. The types of fixed dental restorations will be presented along with impression and purpose and the Technician's responsibility.
